It only runs on a particular architecture like ARM, x86 or x64. Most programs you buy are for x64. Generally speaking there are two solutions. Buy an x86 computer and run it in a VM. If it's free, good. If it's expensive, research how to run VirtualBox or WirtualBox in a Raspberry Pi. Run the Linux program on a x64 machine remotely via the SSH protocol. This can be done via VNC, X11 or some SSH connection. There is little maintenance involved. I don't think there's a great solution that supports both. Form 2 3e33713323
