The year is 2131. Earth is a mess. Humanity is broken, war has become the norm, and the technology and machines have superseded and surpassed nature. We live in a hyper-advanced society, where artificial intelligence rules over us. And, once every few years, when the moon is at the right angle and the right rhythm, a gigantic meteor showers down on Earth, and in the apocalypse of one of the first natural disasters since the species began, they find us and create a new world. They call this new world Equinox. Key Features: • Nearly unlimited number of plants, animals and monsters • Keep up to 24 ecosystems simultaneously • Fully sandbox mode with a little bit of RPG • Add as many creatures as you want • Start a chain of events to grow your team into a city • Thousands of items and creatures to buy and breed • Everything is procedurally generated, so you can start every game with something completely different • Multiple difficulty levels • Grow in size and complexity with every new task if you like the game check out more of my works on my itch.io page: Please, leave a like or a comment if you are enjoying the game or if I should make any change in the game. Thanks for playing and if you want to see more of my games you can Subscribe to my channel on YouTube, it's a lot more comfortable and you don't miss out on any new updates. The power to do anything: Over 1,500 years ago, you were handed a card. You could use it to do anything. Anything at all. There are two questions you have to ask yourself, the unasked ones. First: were you given the power to do anything? And second: will you use the power to do anything? ===== In this game we play two friends. It is a custom card game with a set of cards that can do anything. The game is a classic game of memory and placing a card down on the table that will do anything. The first player to do anything is the winner. It's a story about adventures, about love and healing, about family and sexuality, about simple living and honor. It's about the good work that is left to do. It's about how you will win and where you will lose. Connect with me on: • Facebook:

The community of 3D artists that are producing larger and larger projects as well as awesome replays. The community for all active people helping out with updates. The active Multiplayer community helping to spread the word. Sproing Shooter World Gone Gold! :D Get the latest news in our Facebook and Twitter! Sproing Shooter - the physics-based arena shooter that doesn't take itself too seriously - is out! The original physics-based shooter has been expanded with 30 brand new levels, a new power-up system and various features. A lot of work has gone into making sure the Sproing Shooter gameplay still remains its defining feature. In a nutshell the gameplay is this: you will have limited resources to build a base and items to restore or destroy as you play your way through a warzone. With a team of up to four players, you aim to destroy all those tanks of the enemy team before they can destroy your base. The physics-based model is a destructive one. It is built upon top of the foundations provided by the Unity engine and PhysX. This means that every action is displayed on screen, enemies blow up in a spectacular way. Just about every part of the game world is destructible, from walls and roofs to vehicles and debris. Playing the game for hours can be a joy or a total downer depending on how much time you decide to waste on the short-lived game-play. A total of 30 brand new levels has been added. They all convey an original and unique atmosphere. Some levels contain secret areas, one of them even holds the high score of all time. The last level also adds a dynamic soundtrack of well-known tunes to the gameplay. Another major addition is c9d1549cdd

Welcome to the most exciting war simulation ever! No, I don't mean the one where your troops get to enjoy small tea parties while they're waiting for the next stage of the campaign to start. I mean the war where you fight wars with your people, and the fate of the world is in your hands. You control your country's army and mobilize all its allies. Can you become the strongest country in the world? Can you prevent an all-out war between your country and its biggest rival? We think so. Features an intense turn-based war simulation Google Play reviews now use Google+ so it's easier to see opinions from people you care about. A (mostly) light-hearted story. What's not to like? What if we flipped them? What if the story came first, then the puzzles? If you thought the answer to this was 'A puzzle game with a story', you're obviously not yet hip to Flick's unique approach. If you're a puzzle game fan, you'll love the innovative, intuitive and hilarious puzzles. If you like games with a story, you'll enjoy the hilarious story and characters. I hope you like it as much as we do! **For tablets only** ***FEATURES*** - Hundreds of puzzles to solve- Puzzles that span a wide variety of genres- Fun characters and challenging brain-teasers- Compatible with tablets What's new in this version: - Fixed a bug that caused incorrect solution times to be displayed- Some characters now have some missing lines of dialogue that were not appearing due to low space on the messagebox- Fixed a bug that caused the game to freeze on launch if too many actions have been performed Stickman Samurai Game is an action packed action game where you have to help a samurai stickman to battle against two mutant stickmen. What's new:

is a dark place. Life was simpler there. Drake Somehow, every part of Jora Lesaan's body aches. Her heart feels leaden. She wants to claw skin from her skull. There's so little comfort to be found here, when the blood and hunger are so perfect. She's practically trapped in one part of the enormous Labyrinth. Her every move is circumscribed. Not only does the trap maze lead her away from her friends, but it also forces her to deal with something she'd rather forget about. Namely, Jora is the daughter of the Morak, the Empress of the Labyrinth. That she has nothing to do with the Morak lends little comfort. It's not too late. It's also not too early. If she could find out how long the others had been gone, maybe she could get some answers. Jora no longer has a lantern, so there is no source of light to help her navigate. She'll have to use her wits and refuse to just lay down and mope. Finally, she makes her way to a small pool of water and kneels. She can hear the others scuttling through the bamboo, singing the complex litany of their trade. They're probably as hungry and upset as she is. Which means they've almost certainly gone mad by now. No, she thinks, she'll simply have to wait it out. The others may get themselves into the most dire of situations if they wait too long. Jora settles down in a corner and focuses on her own breathing. The longer she waits, the more likely it is that she'll turn into some sort of feral creature. She's been here for almost two days. That also means that the others had been gone for more than a week. A week. Her stomach twists. She closes her eyes, but it doesn't help. She doesn't even have anything to drink. It might be tempting to go mad. Her mind is a bramble of thoughts. She forces herself to focus. When she wakes up, either the Mordrem will have received word or they'll be dead. She knows that is one choice. That isn't a particularly comforting thought. There are so many questions she wants answered. What did the
