Please help me, need to reinstall the tools to play games but was unable to install from the original files in my windows

8.1. Downloaded the files from the support website and tried to reinstall on the same pc but to no avail. Need some help. A: You should double check if the program exists on your system first before trying to install a second time. An easy way to check it. In start menu, type "regedit" and press enter. Now you should be able to find the software files and some registry keys. Close the registry and run the installer again. In case the process fails to install properly, try to delete the registry files and then perform the installation. Try to install and use the Winzip tool to move and copy files into the default installation directory. NOTE: It is highly recommended to back up your files in case you remove them.

Iron and iron-containing devices such as, for example, ammunition, are usually stored and transported in a safe, wherein the devices are disposed on trays that are arranged in the safe. In order to handle the devices from the trays, the trays have a loading station for loading the devices onto a conveyor or, respectively, transferring station. For example, trays arranged on the loading station can be first separated from the conveyor and can be removed from the safe, on which trays the devices can be loaded. Usually, for this purpose, an internal or external slide or tilting device is used to remove the tray from the safe. It is however possible to also remove the tray from the conveyor without the use of such tilting devices. The safe or the conveyor, respectively, is then moved to a receiving station and the devices are separated from the trays. The conveyor can be removed from the receiving station and then moved to the loading station. For example, it is possible that the conveyor can be moved from the receiving station to the loading station via a transfer machine on a second axis, which transfer machine is connected to the conveyor. As mentioned, it is however also possible to also remove the conveyor from the receiving station without the use of such a transfer machine. If the safe, the conveyor or the transfer machine is removed from the receiving station by means of a tilting device, the devices can be displaced on the tray that is still arranged in the safe.
