The purpose of this study is to determine the role of multiparametric MRI in preoperative imaging diagnosis and management of renal oncocytoma. Forty renal oncocytomas in 20 patients were analyzed. Multiple different MRI protocols were performed for all patients: axial T1WI (400/7), axial T2WI (1500/20), axial fat-suppressed T2WI (1500/15), and axial T1WI with contrast (1.5/400). In 18 lesions (45%) the HU calculation was used to estimate the contrast enhancement; in 32 lesions (80%), the relative signal intensity ratio (RIR) analysis was performed, and the corresponding histologic diagnoses were made after biopsy. The RIR curves of oncocytomas were different from those of typical renal cell carcinomas, with a peak of RIR1 at a mean of 54.25 for oncocytomas, increasing to 58.00 in RIR2 at 48 and 72 min. The difference was statistically significant (P

Whether you're on foot, on a bike, on a horse, or in a car, the Santa Ana River Tree is worth the trip. It was a vital resting place for weary travelers from the 19th century to the present. The tree grew up and down the banks of the river from late June to late September, its branches arching over the narrow valley. It stands beside the Rio Hondo; the river changes direction here and here. The original dam and dike have been removed, but the river itself is just as essential to the city's water supply as it was over a hundred years ago. Today,
