Rita Mulcahy - Risk Management: Tricks Of The Trade - 9th Edition: Risk Management - External Rita Mulcahy Risk Management Tricks Of The Trade.Q: Get an array inside an object with json_decode I have an array inside an object and I want to get the array inside the object. Array ([0] => Array ([options] => [0] => [1] => [2] => [3] =>) [1] => Array ([options] => [0] => [1] => [2] => [3] =>)) How I can get the [options] values?

This is the json string: {"page":"1", "recordsTotal":1, "recordsFiltered":1, "data": [{"id":"3","name":"Alberto Bolòs","lastname":"Balsamo","age":"30","nombre":"Ola","apellid o_paterno":"Olama","apellido_materno":"Olla", ,"ciudad":"Burgos"}], "current": 1} I'm using the following code: `$sprintf = json_decode($result->data[0]['data']);` I'm getting this output: `{"options":[]}` A: The data key on the first element of the data array is not an array. It's an object, so `$sprintf = json_decode($result->data[0]['data'])` will give you the object's current property, which is the object's data property. You want to access the data array, which is a plain array, so use the first element of the data array's sub-arrays: `$sprintf = json_decode($result->d ata[0]['data'][0]['data']);` package
